WORK ON THE PANAMA CANAL

REPORT MADE BY THE CHIEF ENGINEER

Wallace Says the Sea Level Canal Can Be Constructed in Ten Years for Large Vessels—Proceedings in Congress.

Washington, Feb. 4.—In view of the lack of public information as to the status of work on canal digging on the isthmus and as to the exact amount of work executed so far by the Americans since they took up the task, the American minister to Panama after a conference with Chief Engineer Wallace and a close personal inspection of the route of the proposed canal submitted to the state department a report upon this subject. The communication is practically a brief summary of a vast amount of statistics and facts that will eventually be produced by the commission, showing the actual construction on the canal accomplished since July 1 last, when Wallace took charge of the engineering department. The most important statement is this:

"If the next six months show progress corresponding to that of the past six it is the conviction of the best engineers on the isthmus that the sea level canal can be constructed in ten years and be ready for large vessels by Jan. 1, 1915."

The report declares there is no ground for the reports that little has been accomplished in advancing the construction of the canal during the past six or eight months.

ACCORDING TO DENVER REPUBLICAN JUDGE

Identifies Many Ballots Declared Fraudulent and Was Personally Aquainted With Men Who Cast Them.

Denver, Feb. 4.—In the gubernatorial contest to day a number of witnesses, both Democratic and Republican, identified as their own ballots those which experts had declared fraudulent. Attorney Robinson, the Republican judge, identified his ballot among forty Republican ballots which an expert had declared written by the same person. He also identified his initials under the numbers of the ballots and declared they were all ballots which were cast in his precinct on election day. "Then," said Attorney Rush, "when Expert Fuehry says these forty Republican ballots are in one handwriting he is somewhat of a failure as an expert?"

"Absolutely," said the witness. The witness declared it was absolutely impossible that these ballots had been switched. On examining the list of fifty Democratic and forty Republican names corresponding to the ballots which experts reported were in one handwriting, the witness declared he was personally acquainted with forty-five of the Democrats and thirty-five of the Republicans and knew they voted. The other ten, he testified, were legally registered, but did not know them personally.

Depositions of voters whose ballots have been declared illegal by experts were taken before notaries public. At least 300 depositions have been secured.

Mrs. Kate Hogan stated that although a Democrat she had acted as a Republican watcher in precinct 14, ward, 6. In that precinct Expert Prouts had testified that eighty-three Democratic and twenty-two Republican ballots were in the same handwriting. Mrs. Hogan stated that when she heard charges of fraud in her precinct she made a personal canvass and out of the 350 people who voted she checked up 347. The names of the alleged fraudulent voters were read to Mrs. Hogan and with one exception she stated they were bona fide residents and voters.

Thirteen witnesses in all were examined to day with a view of having them identify their ballots from among those which the committee considered prima facl fraudulent reports of the experts. In every case the witness was able to identify his ballot and in some cases his wife's ballot as well.

SUIT FOR MILLIONS

Action Brought Against Mennonite Society at Iowa City.

Iowa City, Iowa, Feb. 4.—A sensational suit has been begun against the Amana Mennonite society. Judge S. H. As a result of the complaint Judge Byington, of Iowa City, has ordered County Attorney Wallace to bring action involving from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000. Subject Discussed With President by Heads of Two Railroads

Washington, Feb. 4.—President A. J. Cassatt of the Pennsylvania railroad and President Samuel Spencer of the Southern Railway, called at the white house to day at the invitation of President Roosevelt and discussed proposed legislation looking to the regulation of freight rates. It may be stated on authority that the two railroad presidents expressed a perfect willingness to co-operate in a matter of legislation that protects both sides, but they made known to the president that in their opinion the Townsend-Esch bill, which will come up for consideration Tuesday next, furnishes practically no protection to railroad interests. When asked if those interests intended to fight the proposed legislation one of the officials said he did not know that there was any movement of that kind on foot. "Of course," he added, "congress will do what it thinks best."

FRENCH PRESS

Claims Russians Have Won Case in North Sea Incident.

Pais, Feb. 4.—The close of testimony before the international commission inquiringinto the North sea incident has been followed by a rather noticeable diminution of confidence in British circles connected with the case, and a corresponding relation on the part of Russians. The French press, which is strongly pro-Russian, gives marked prominence to the statement that the Russians have virtually won their case, the usual conservative Temps and Journal asserting positively that a majority of the court now favors the Russian theory that torpedo boats attacked Rojestvensky's squadron. However, the inquiry in wel informed circles does not show and real buss for these reports. On the contrary intimations are made that the tendency within the court is rather in the opposite direction.

WITHDRAWAL OF GRIPENBERG

AND REPORTED RETIREMENT OF KUROPATKIN

Absorb Attention of Russians at Present—Japanese Manchurian Headquarters Reports Situation Unchanged.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 4.—Interest in the ill-starred attempt to capture Sandepas is eclipsed by the withdrawal of General Gripenberg and unconfirmed reports regarding the retirement of Kuropatkin. According to the latest information received by the war office operations on the right flank of the Russian army are at a standstill. The extreme right of the Russians continues to hold Chiantsihenan on thet Hun river. Apparently both sides are unable to move owing to the terrible weather. There are 25 degrees of frost, accompanied by wind, but in view of the sudden fluctuations in the temperature at this time of the year the frost may suddenly decrease, and the Russians would then be confronted with the alternative of withdrawing in order to avoid being intercepted by the Japanese column from Shilikhe or of undertaking a general advance. The latter view finds some confirmation in a dispatch to the Associated Press from Tsinkhotchen, reporting a reconnaissance by General Rennenkahmpf's force on the Russian left, which perhaps is preliminary to an advance.

Military authorities here are encouraged by the report as showing that the Russians are able to repeat the plan of reaching the enemy's line of communication.

Tokio, Feb. 4.—Manchurian headquarters says: Thursday the enemy's artillery bombarded from several points over the right wing. Otherwise the situation is unchanged. In the direction of our center early Friday morning one company of the enemy's infantry attacked our outposts from the Mukden road and later another section attacked in the neighborhood of Wanchiayuantsu. Both attacks were repulsed. In the direction of our left the enemy has been attacking in the neighborhood of Liutiaokou since Thursday morning. Their force of two brigades was driven back toward Chang Tai. The enemy's losses are estimated at 1,100 dead. Russian dead were also interred after the battle of Heikoutai to the number of 900.

RUSSIANS NOT THROUGH.

Mukden, Feb. 4.—Though there is a momentary pause in operations Russian activity on the Shake river has not ended. Two hundred prisoners were brought in to day. They were badly dressed and suffering from the cold. The Japanese report that 500 Russians were taken prisoners during the andepas operations is untrue and the Japanese losses greatly exceed the Tokio estimates of Russian losses because in their advance over frozen ground it was impossible for the Japanese to entrench.

During the fortnight the roads have been fighting over export traffic in corn from the west rates have thus decreased 50 per cent. There is no sign of weakening on either side and further reductions are expected early next week.

FACTORY CLOSED

Because Employes Tore Down Emperor's Proclamation.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 4.—Lessner's torpedo factory, employing 600 expert fitters and brass workers, has been closed because Governor General Trepoff ordered the dismissal of the whole staff of the concern for tearing down posters of the emperor's recent speech to the workmen's delegation and because the manager was unable to replace these men. The works are strongly guarded by police. The admiralty and war office have requested Trepoff to allow the workmen to be reemployed and it is hoped the factory will reopen Monday. The men claim they tore down the posters because the deputation which waited on the emperor did not include their representatives.

A certain amount of agitation continues here. Printers in several establishments have struck again because the employers refused to pay them for the week they were idle.

Before the fire could be extinguished and the body recovered it had been burned beyond recognition.

Vienna, Feb. 4.—In view of the recent victory of the Hungarian independence party Emperor Francis Joseph has extended an invitation to Franz Kossuth, son of the emperor's most bitter enemy, to meet him either at Vienna or Budapest. The news has created a deep impression in both countries. The Hungarians consider it the greatest concession to constitutional principles and strict Austrians consider it a heavy blow to dynastic feelings. County Andrassy conveyed the emperor's invitation to Kossuth.

It is not yet known where the audience will occur. Kossuth, it is stated, has declared he will only meet the emperor in the Hungarian capital. It is believed here that the possibility is Kossuth would be appointed Hungarian minister of finance.

TO PAY STATE TAX

Corporations Bear Such Expenses in States of New York and Ohio—Why Not in Illinois? Is Query Asked by Secretary Rose.

"If the state of Illinois had commenced twenty years ago as it should have, or if the general assembly would now undertake the work in the proper spirit, the annual fees from corporations of this state and the income from other departments of state would be more than sufficient to meet all state expenses."—Secretary of State James A. Rose.

The question is, is it too late to begin a reconstruction of the laws relating to the fees of corporations? Mr. Rose was not talking without knowledge of the experience of other states which have done the very thing which he says Illinois should have begun twenty years ago. At the present time the fees of the secretary's office and the income from other departments of the state government are not quite equal to half of the state expenses. The rest must be raised by taxation and the state rate for this year is the highest in a number of years, though on account of lower assessed valuation in the state the amount of money to be raised is a little greater.

In New York, Mr. Rose explained, the annual fees of corporations are great enough to meet most of the expenses of the state. There is no state tax in New York as a result. In Ohio much the same conditions exist. The corporations of this state are numerous enough and big enough to bear a large share of state expenses in return for the benefits they enjoy through the liberal charter the state grants.

The income of the secretary's office at present is large. The corporations taking out their charters contribute a large proportion of this sum. The income of the state from the insurance department is a large sum. The Illinois Central pays over a million dollars as its 7 per cent of gross receipts on its original lines. The state's share of the the inheritance tax is considerably more one year than another.

The state charitable institutions have an income in some instances. Some of them raise a large part of the vegetables and meat, all of which is charged off against the expenses.

An annual tax on the corporations doing business in the state under an Illinois charter would increase the fund so that there would be no deficit to be raised by a state tax.

The success of the plan to take 7 per cent of gross receipts in lieu of all other taxes on railroads and corporations enjoying public privileges has been demonstrated in the case of the Illinois Central. There is every reason to believe that the state is really getting its 7 per cent. The Central, it is true, diverts a quantity of its business from the original lines, but even after that is done the business on the 7 per cent lines has been increasing rapidly from year to year until the state's share has reached more than a million annually. There is no temptation or possibility for a corporation to bribe or deceive an assessor. There would be no necessity for a corporation to employ expert lawyers and tax commissioners to watch every little levy in the entire state for the sake of attacking its legality and evading payment of its share of the taxes on that particular levy. The amount of taxes due the public would be easily ascertained. There are numerous checks and safeguards to insure honest reports and the whole gross revenue system of taxation would be specially and easily carried out.—Springfield News.

WHEN YOU HAVE A COLD.

The first action when you have a cold should be to relieve the lungs. This is best accomplished by the free use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. This Remedy liquefies the tough mucus and causes its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs, produce a free expectoration, and opens the secretions. A complete cure soon follows. This remedy will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment and it leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition. It counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by all leading druggists.

ILLINOIS CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC.

Mr. Ferdinand Haberkorn, instructor in violin, will give a talk on the string quartet at Academy hall on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 8, at 4 o'clock. Mr. Haberkorn will illustrate his talk with the violin, explaining and illustrating the numbers which the Spiering quartet will play on Friday. The public is invited to take advantage of this opportunity of becoming familiar with these works.

CHAMBERLAIN'S STOMACH AND LIVER TABLETS. UNEQUALLED FOR CONSTIPATION.

A. R. Kane, a prominent druggist of Baxter Springs, Kan., says: "Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets are, in my judgment, the most superior preparation of anything in use to day for constipation. They are sure in action and with no tendency to nauseate or gripe. For sale by all leading druggists.

KNEW VAN BUREN AND JACKSON

Judge Fagg of Louisiana Mo. Was a Student at Illinois College When Former Was Here and Recalls Visit of Latter at Home of His Father in Virginia.

The following article from the pen of Judge T. J. C. Fagg, of Louisiana, Mo., regarding the visit of President Van Buren will be read with interest.

Judge Fagg is the oldest living graduate of Illinois college and was here as a student at the time of the ex-president's visit. Judge Fagg also has a clear recollection of President Andrew Jackson who was at one time a guest at his father's house in the state of Virginia and he distinct remembers filling "the president's pipe" on the occasion of the visit. The letter reads as follows:

Louisiana, Mo., Feb. 1, 1905.

Editor Journal—A lady friend (Mrs. Dr. Kellogg) of Jacksonville was kind enough a short time since to send me a clipping from the Journal containing an account of the visit of ex-President Van Buren to your city. I was then a student at Illinois college and still retain a vivid impression of the event. I am quite sure that the visit was made in the month of May, 1842. It was after the expiration of his term of office as president, which occurred on the 4th of March, 1841, and after the completion of the railroad from Meredosia to Jacksonville and not far from the time at which we celebrated its extension to Springfield. The train was stopped in the center of the square near the old court house and market house where an immense crowd of people awaited his arrival. After the formal reception in the square it was determined by those in charge of the affair that the people should have an opportunity of shaking hands with the distinguished visitor. He was conducted to the Morgan house on the north side of the square where he took his position on the west of the street running north, standing with his back to the hotel. A line was formed on the square and passed down in front of him, each one giving him a very hearty hand shake. In company with one of my classmates, Thomas K. Beecher, I fell into the line and gave him a most sincere and hearty grip of the hand. After the large portion of the people had exercised the great privilege of greeting the man for whom most of them had voted at the election of 1840, Beecher said to me that he was not at all satisfied with the shake that he got, and he proposed if I would consent that we should try it again. I was a little timid about the matter because I saw Colonel McHenry was standing at the left of Mr. Van Buren and he knew me very well as a customer at his store on the south side of the square. We passed through, however, the second time without interruption, or recognition and did our best to convince Mr. Van Buren that we were delighted to see him. I do not remember who stood up on the right of Mr. Van Buren, but have an impression that it was James A. McDougall. I am not sure as to this. Colonel McHenry was a Whig and the other man who assisted in presenting the ex-president the more noted visitors in the great throng must have been a prominent Democrat. I had been an irregular student at the college for several terms before this event and I am quite well assured of the fact that General Jackson was never a visitor to the town of Jacksonville. I was reared and educated in the school of southern democracy and from my earliest boyhood kept track of the movements of "old hickory" and such close friends of his as President Van Buren and others. I remember very distinctly a visit by each of these distinguished men to my father's house in eastern Virginia. You will pardon me for mentioning a fact to illustrate the accuracy of my memory as to some small incident connected with the visit of General Jackson to my father. It occurred only a few days after Lieut. Randolph had pulled his nose at Alexandria, Va. He gave a minute account of the whole affair and during the recital smoked incessantly a common stone pipe with a long cane stem.

You can imagine that I felt a great deal of boyish pride in the fact that he called upon me to fill and light his pipe.

At the time of his visit Mr. Van Buren was making a tour of the western states with the view of securing the nomination again for the presidency in 1844.

It is a matter of history that he did get a majority of the delegates to the Baltimore convention of 1844 instructed for him, but was cheated out of the nomination by the intrigue and treachery of the political leaders and managers who controlled that body. Excuse me for troubling you with this unimportant matter.

Very respectfully,
Thos. J. C. Fagg.

Signs of Disease

The First Signs of Disease are a Poor Complexion, Weakness, Emaciation and Lack of Vitality.

The first sign of returning health is increase of flesh, strength and vigor. This weakness, emaciation and lack of vitality simply means that certain substances, which go to make up the blood and nerves, have become exhausted and to renew flesh, muscle and strength, these substances must be restored. Dr. Chase's Blood and Nerve Food is composed of the same kind of substances that are lacking in the impoverished blood and nerves when in poor health and abundant in the rich juices that flow through the system when in perfect health. If people would take this food occasionally when in health to keep their blood and nerves in good condition, many spells of sickness and wasting disease would be prevented. It makes sick people well, puts solid flesh and muscle on thin people, gives strength to weak people, restores the lost vitality to nervous people, imparts the tint of health to pale and sallow people. It adds years to life and puts life into years. Price 50 cents. Book free.

ARTISTS' RECITALS.

Will the music loving people of Jacksonville support a series of recitals by first class artists? The city has had a remarkable reputation in the past for encouraging recitals by noted artists. Will that attitude be continued?

The course of recitals which is to be opened by the Spiering String quartet on Friday evening of this week under the management of the Illinois Conservatory should have the support not only of the musicians and music lovers, but of every person who believes in providing the highest and best means for the education of the young people of the city.

We think nothing of paying $1.50 for a single play or concert. Why hesitate at the same amount for three such recitals as these? The recitals will all be held at Westminster church. Spiering quartet Feb. 10, Elizabeth Reichert Schiller, soprano, Feb. 27, Mary Wood Chase, pianiste, April 3. Tickets on sale at Smith's music store.

REAL ESTATE, LOANS, Fire Insurance

If you are intersted in Southern lands, come and go to Mississippi next week with us. Buy land where you can get it for a low price and rent it for five, six and seven dollars per acre.

THE BEST INVESTMENT OF ALL—Southern cotton lands. Lots of people are now getting seven dollars for land that cost them very little more per acre. If you are a coward, don't go down and buy. Stay where you are and make two or three per cent on your money. If you are a live one and want to make money, buy a small or large cotton plantation and live easy.

We don't tell you this. We ask you to go and see for yourself. Seeing is believing with most of us. We simply ask to show the goods, and they will sell themselves.

We have three fine farms in Morgan county that we can sell between now and March first.

We have some nice lots in the west part of the city; also fine homes on West State, Sandusky and Lafayette. Also three storerooms. Also thirty thousand dollars waiting to be loaned out. If you don't want it, tell the fellow who does. We'll sell any old thing you've got to sell.

Don't forget that we take your property and manage it the same as you do at a very small commission. We take the worry. You get the money.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

I hereby announce myself as a candidate for the nomination of city clerk, subject to the decision of the republican city convention.
George W. Scott.

Bird S. Coler has resigned as president of the municipal civil service commission. Mr. Coler told his friends he resigned because he was obliged to give all his attention to his Wall street business. That explanation is not accepted by the politicians, however, as several Tammany district leaders had entered protests against some of Mr. Coler's official actions.

In an address before the League for Education, Simon N. Patten, professor of political economy of the University of Pennsylvania, has advocated that women should marry early, and when married they should work, in order to have economic independence. He argued if the ideal which is held by so many men in regard to the support of their wives is carried on much further it will result in a deterioration of the race and danger to society.

A SUCCESSFUL CONTACTOR

Some of the Work Done in the City and Vicinity by N. B. Plummer.

The large amount of building which has been done the past year has called for additional workmen and contractors and among the latter may be reckoned one of the most energetic and successful, N. B. Plumber. Though the gentleman has been operating on his own account for a year only, he has made a record of which a man older in the business might be proud. Mr. Plummer has had 25 years experience in the trade and has worked with the best of mechanics, from whom he has learned the business in first class shape and he has wisely profited by the opportunities he has enjoyed. He has capital sufficient to carry on his business properly and coupled with it are good mechanical ability, industry, perseverance, integrity, good judgment and a progressive spirit, which causes him to avail himself of all that is new and desirable to be learned. Whenever he sees a new thing in his line he at once makes a note of it and uses it when it comes his way and he has good taste and skill in choosing what is best. Among the structures which bear the impress of his skill in the pagoda in central park, which is a neat and admirably executed piece of work which will well bear a closer inspection by all who admire first class workmanship. Others of his contracts are:
Addition for Mrs. Wilhite.
Barn for Charles Brown.
Pagoda in Central park.
House for Frank Hagan.
Addition for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henry.
Mr. Carlson's house on South Clay avenue.
Store for Mr. Eatsman on South Main street.
Barn for Mr. Rice on the Mound.
Fixtures in Badger drug store.
Work for Farrell & Co. and Alexander.
Remodelled a house for Mr. Smith on South West street and numerous other work.
Also for himself one of the most commodious and up-to-date residences on South Fayette street.
Any person wanting up-to-date work done promptly and well and at reasonable prices will do well to call on N. B. Plummer.

An important called meeting of the Woman's club was held at the Woman's college on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Hugh Weston, vice president of the club, acted as presiding officer. The club accepted with regret the resignation of Mrs. James Parsons, who was elected at the annual meeting to the office of president. The position of president of the board of directors of Associated Charities, which she has recently accepted, makes it impossible for her to assume the duties of the office. She has accepted, however, the position of chairman of the committee on civics and philanthropy, in which she has served the club so acceptably during the past year.

The resignation of Mrs. Hollinger as treasurer makes it necessary also to elect a new treasurer.

A nominating committee was appointed, consisting of Mrs. Weston, Mrs. Tilden and Mrs. Lambert, to report names of candidates for a new election, to be held at the next regular meeting of the club.

On motion of Mrs. Ferris that an amendment should be considered to Art. II., Sec. 2, of the constitution an amendment committee was appointed, which later reported to the session, recommending that the first sentence of Art. II., Sec. 2, be dropped, said section then standing to read: "No member of less than one year's standing shall be eligible to office." Action on the proposed amendment will be taken at the next regular meeting.

The annual dues must be accredited before members are entitled to vote. Mrs. Brackett, acting treasurer pro tem by appointment of the executive board, will be at the college at 2:30 p. m. on Saturday for the accommodation of the members. Year books also may be procured before the opening of the session.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held on Saturday, Feb. 11. It will be in charge of the committee on civics and philanthropy and will be addressed by Mrs. Aimee, of Chicago. Mrs. Aimee is in charge of the state training school for girls and will speak on the subject which she has made her life interest. The afternoon is made a guest day that we may have with us all friends especially interested in the work of women and woman's clubs for the assistance of young girls.

Music will be furnished under the supervision of Mrs. Will Short.

At the close of the program a reception will be held in honor of Mrs. Aimee and invited guests.

"ROYAL SLAVE" TOMORROW EVENING.

"A Royal Slave," which comes to this city tomorrow evening, will prove an innovation in the way of melodrama, as it is a distinct novelty both as to theme and scenic embellishment. The plot of the play is taken from Gen. Lew. Wallace's great story, "The Fair God," which is sufficient guarantee of its literary merit. The many beautiful scenes have been painted from photographs taken in Mexico especially for this production and are said to be magnificent examples of the scene painter's art.

CHRISTENING PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Capps gave a small company Saturday for the christening of their daughter. The gathering included J. F. Hatch and daughters, Misses Stella and Ethel, of Griggsville, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Capps and Dr. and Mrs. R. O. Post. Dr. Post officiated at the christening, pronouncing the child's name Mary Janet. The ceremoony was beautifully simple, and very impressive.

WHY WE RECOMMEND ORRINE TO CURE DRUNKENNESS.

In taking the agency for Orrine, the liquor habit cure, we thoroughly satisfied ourselves that it was an article of genuine merit, and that the company, which is located in Washington, D. C., deals squarely and lives up strictly to the guarantee. "If the cure is not made the money will be refunded."

Since selling Orrine numerous cases have come to our knowledge that have been cured of the horrible liquor habit by this meritorious article, which strengthens the nervous system and destroys the craving for whiskey, beer or other alcoholic stimulants. Orrine is prepared in two forms. No. 1 should be given to cure the patient without his knowledge. It can be put into coffee or food, as it is tasteless, colorless and odorless.

We think that when the excessive drinker is approached properly he will be willing to be cured. If he consents, purchase Orrine No. 2, which is put up in pill form. Either form sells at $1 per package. Step into our store and receive full information regarding Orrine, the remedy that really cures the liquor habit. If you will write to the Orrine company, Inc., Washington, D. C., they will send you free a book on "Drunkenness," in a plain paper wrapper.

We have great confidence that Orrine cures the drink habit and highly recommend it to you.

MORE IMPROVEMENTS

Alderman Hildreth Thinks We Want in Audition to New Streets, More Street Car Lines and Other Betterments.

Editor Journal—I have no desire to appear in print too frequently, but a spirit of improvement is in the air and as times are good and money easy, it does seem to me that the citizens of this place ought to work together for a number of enterprises and so as to secure them at an early date. With an unlimited supply of good water the future of this place puts on a far different aspect and all should endeavor to make the most of it for our beautiful city. It will generally be admitted that we have an excellent street car system; that the cars run as frequently as could be asked and that they are generally well warmed in winter and made comfortable and all patrons treated with courtesy. But we need more of the service, and I feel confident that with the extension of Hardin avenue to the Vandalia road a loop from the south end so as to take in Nichols park would certainly be a good thing down Hardin avenue to East State street. This is a matter in which a great many are taking a deep interest and it is to be hoped that it will have the careful consideration of those most interested. The street car system should come and thus extend it certainly would pay soon of not at once.

Then, too, the subject opens up the consideration of others of vast importance. Many are unwilling to see Jacksonville so quiet as it is three months of the year. We now have the beginning of a beautiful park. Why not have other attractions in connection with it? I am certain we have the talent and capital in this city to conduct a profitable chautauqua in the immediate vicinity of the park. With street car service out there why could we not have an enterprise which would be a credit to the city and keep thousands at home while at the same time we offer pleasant recreation to many who would otherwise not have it? This subject is certainly worthy a careful investigation. The two enterprises are interwoven. Then, too, there could be a speed ring adjacent to the park, as I understand the old fair ground track will not be any longer available.

I offer these suggestions, hoping that they will be regarded and given attention by those who may carry them to a successful issue.

Respectfully,
M. L. Hildreth.

A NIGHT ALARM.

Worse than an alarm of fire at night is the brassy cough of croup, which sounds like the children's death knell, and it means death unless something is done quickly. Foley's Honey and Tar never fails to give instant relief and quickly cures the worst forms of croup. Mrs. P. L. Cordier, of Mannington, Ky., writes: "My three-year-old girl had a severe case of croup; the doctor said she could not live. I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar, the first dose gave quick relief and saved her life." Refuse substitutes. For sale by J. A. Obermeyer, City Drug Store.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

The Art of Washing.

When washing flannels never let them lie long in the water, or they will soften and turn yellow, and instead of rubbing soap on them use a lukewarm suds made of soap jelly and warm water. Souse the flannels in the water and rinse carefully. Iron with a moderately hot iron. Of course great care should be used when washing colored goods.

Stockings, socks or flannels, for example, should never be put into hard water, for not only does it shrink them, but it hardens the fiber. Again, fabrics that are likely to fade should be soaked and rinsed in very salt water to set the color before washing in suds. Dye in colored clothing will not run if each garment is first soaked in a salt solution in the proportion of one teacupful of salt to every pail of water. Quick drying is the only method that does not fade them, too, and when such goods as calicoes, ginghams and chintzes are ironed the smoothing should be done on the wrong side to keep the colors fresh. Green cloth is kept from fading if alum is used in the rinsing water. Tan colored or brown linen needs to be dipped in hay water. This is made by pouring boiling water on a few handfuls of hay and letting it steep a few moments.

Cure For Hiccoughs.

A young girl suffered for four days without cessation from singultus, about thirty spasms to the minute, the attack being due apparently to some gastric disorder. When she put out her tongue for a few seconds it was found the hiccough ceased. She was then ordered to stick out this member at regular intervals for a few minutes, at the termination of which only a few slight spasms followed. She was then ordered to repeat, when the hiccough ceased altogether and did not again return. It would therefore seem to be proper to try continuous or rhythmic traction of the tongue in those cases.

What Light Diet Means.

When a physician orders light diet for one who is just beginning to recover from a severe illness it is well to know exactly what dishes "light diet" includes. Here is a list given by a careful doctor of the writer's acquaintance: Clam, chicken and mutton broth, broiled fillets of chicken, lamb chops, tenderloin steak, delicately cooked game, soft cooked eggs, dry and milk toast, cereal in small portions, koumiss, cocoa, custards, fresh fruit, gelatin jellies and sponge cake.

A Pretty Bib For Baby.

This pretty bib is made of white butcher's linen (a fine grade), edged with valenciennes lace and feather

A very good plan is to lay your pattern on the linen and cut out two pieces like accompanying illustration. After ruffling the lace lay between the two pieces of linen. Then feather stitch around the edge. The word "Baby" is embroidered with white linen floss. Little girls can make this bib as easily as their mothers.

For the Pantry Shelves.

A splendid idea for pantry shelves is to use two coats of ordinary white paint and then a third finishing coat of white enamel. Wash the shelves with cold water as soon as the enamel dries, and then it will harden quickly. Over this place no oilcloth or paper, but leave the shelves bare and notice the improvement. The enamel is easily wiped over with a damp cloth, and it keeps clean for a very long time.

Flaming Apples.

This attractive dish is very easily prepared. Select rather tart apples of uniform size. Pare, core and stew gently in sugar and water until tender, but unbroken, as the beauty of the entree is that the shape of the apples be preserved. Place each apple in a ramekin or individual serving dish and fill the centers with red currant jelly. Boil the syrup down thick and pour over the apples. Pour a teaspoonful of brandy over the apples as they are carried to the table and ignite just as they are to be served.—Pilgrim.

Coffee a Cleaning Agent.

Black goods, silk, wool or cotton, will look like new if sponged with strong black coffee that has been strained and to which a few spoonfuls of ammonia have been added.

Renovating Sponges.

Buttermilk is excellent for cleaning sponges. Steep the sponge in milk for some hours, then squeeze it out and wash it in cold water. Lemon juice is also good.

Scorched Saucepan.

If a saucepan scorches the contents, set immediately on a wet cloth and it will not be hard to clean.

Mr. Bartholow Of Baltimore

[Original.]

A sleek looking man in Quaker dress mounted on a meek looking horse, attended by a younger man whose legs, mounted as he was on a pony, hung very near the ground, rode into the camp of one of the main divisions of the Confederate army marching to the invasion of Pennsylvania. A sentinel called the corporal of the guard, and the strangers requesting to see the commanding general were taken to his tent.

"General," said the Quaker, "I am a man of peace, belonging to the Society of Friends. Though we eschew war, it is ou' duty as well as ou' desi'e to comfo't ou' misguided brethren who use the swo'd and perish by the swo'd. I come from Baltimo', whe'e ou' people drifted long ago from Philadelphia, and ou' society almost all sympathize with yo' in yo' effo't to throw off the no'th'n yoke, though we can't countenance the means yo' employ. My society has sent me to inquire yo' necessities with a view to rende'ing yo' assistance."

"I am very glad to see you, Mr."—

"Bartholow."

"Mr. Bartholow, it is indeed refreshing to find aid and comfort so far north, but I don't see how we can avail ourselves of the kindness of your society since we are on the march."

"Give me a list of yo' requi'ements and, if not inconsistant with the secrets of yo' service, some idea of whe'e yo' will be in five days. My companion, Mr. Eddleston, not only a Friend, but interested in the Young Men's Christian association, will take it to Baltimo' and see that the supplies reach you."

"What kind of supplies will your society furnish?"

"Only a'ticles for comfo't; none of the implements of wa'."

"H'm!" said the general. "We're much in need of quinine. You might see my medical director. He can tell you. I'll turn you over to him."

The two strangers were sent in care of an orderly to find the medical director, who was visiting the sick. They rode from one temporary hospital to another till they found him, when he took them to his tent and gave them a list of his necessities; then they rode back to the general, who gave them both passes, the elder to visit another division of the army marching by a parallel road, the younger to go eastward. The general invited them to share his frugal supper, after which he sent them forth on their errand of mercy, giving Mr. Bartholow a note to the next general he was to visit.

The Quaker found the new commander equally pleased that citizens of the state of Maryland, then under the "despot's heel," were not only interested in their behalf, but anxious to aid them. He agreed with the Quaker that medicines were the only articles of a bulk that could be transported in the present instance and doubted even if they could be got through the lines of the watchful Yankees. He anticipated a battle and begged Mr. Bartholow to send a supply of bandages, which would be especially needed for the wounded. Mr. Bartholow said that the young ladies of his society had been long engaged in scraping lint, and for every pound given to the northern soldiers a pound had been reserved for the Confederates. This announcement was very pleasing to the general, who on giving the Quaker a list of his medical needs added a letter commending him to the next general he designed visiting. Mr. Bartholow, not having any one to send with the message, asked a pass for a negro he proposed to use as a messenger, which was given cheerfully.

* * * * * * *

General Meade was standing beside a road, an orderly holding his horse, while regiment after regiment marched by. A country girl, mounted, rode up to him and handed him a paper. "General," she said, "a man passing among the southern troops under the name of Eddleston is held on suspicion of being a spy. While going by our farm under guard he asked for a drink of water, inquired of me if I was Union, and when I told him I was he contrived to slip this paper into my hands and whispered, 'General Meade.'"

The general took the paper, glanced at it and called for one of his aids to bring a cipher key. The key was brought and the general read aloud while the aid translated:

"Five pounds rhubarb."
"General L. has five brigades."
"Four bottles spirits ammonia."
"Four batteries."
"Three quarts ginger."
"Three regiments of cavalry."
"Two thousand yards bandages."
"Twenty thousand effectives in all."
"Good!" said the general. "Captain Turner and Sergeant Goodsell have made one success any way."

An hour later a negro rode up to the general with another paper, which, by a similar process, stated that General C. had six batteries, five regiments of cavalry, thirty thousand effectives in all.

During the afternoon the Quaker, Bartholow, rode into the lines, bringing his information in person. Adding the different reports, the general knew the strength of the Confederate army, the strength of its principal divisions, and made his dispositions accordingly.

"Captain Turner," he said to the Quaker, "your work is invaluable. Your promotion will reach you at the earliest moment I can arrange it. You may return to the command of your company."

A week after the battle Sergeant Goodsell came in, reporting that he had been carried south in the Confederate retreat as far as the Potomac, then released. RUSSELL THORNE.

A Social Leader.

Mrs. Potter Palmer, who recently caused a commotion in Chicago social circles by omitting from the list of the patronesses of the charity ball many of the wealthiest and most prominent of that city's smart set, has long been a recognized leader in society affairs. Mrs. Palmer has but recently returned from abroad, having lived for the past year or so in Paris. Her home near the Bois is one of the finest in the French capital.

Mrs. Palmer is a native of Kentucky and was married in 1871 to Potter

Watterson Described.

Daniel E. O'Sullivan, a friend of Marse Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, soldier, poet, lecturer and statesman, describes him thus: "Height about five feet six inches, with every inch filling a cell surcharged with nervous energy. He always walks as if there was a goal ahead worth getting to in the shortest possible time. His head is finely poised on broad shoulders. There is no waste material about him. Nature made every line tell. The student of character would find Watterson's face a delight. His eyes are restless with alert perception. The nose is well modeled, the chin a challenge, a very sentinel guarding the sensual weakness of the mouth. Crown this shapely head with a plenitude of hair that touches his forehead with the caress of a single vagrant lock, and you have a contour that sculptors like to model."

A Reminder.

Richard Croker once visited an ancient English castle, the owner being absent at the time. The valet in charge was generous with his information and as a climax to the series of interesting rooms opened a door and disclosed a large number of bottles placed in perfect symmetry and reaching to the lofty ceiling.

"A pyramid of empty bottles!" exclaimed the New Yorker. "What does it mean?"

"My master comes in here occasionally," said the guide softly, "to realize what a gigantic ass he has made of himself."—Portland Oregonian.

Cleveland, Tenn. W. K. DEVERS.

For over fifteen years I have suffered more or less from Impure Blood. About a year ago I had a boil appear on my leg below the knee, which was followed by three more on my neck. I saw S. S. S. advertised and decided to try it. After taking three bottles all Boils disappeared and I have not been troubled any since.

Newark, Ohio, May 23, 1903.
From childhood I had been bothered with bad blood, skin eruptions and boils. I had boils ranging from five to twenty in number each season. The burning accompanying the eruption was terrible. S. S. S. seemed to be just the medicine needed in my case. It drove out all impurities and bad blood, giving me permanent relief from the skin eruption and boils. This has been ten years ago, and I have never had a return of the disease.

MATHENY & LLOYD.

(By Associated Press.)

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Wheat—Interest centered on July. Throughout the entire day there was urgent demand from shorts. The price on distant deliveries advanced with the session. Under the influence of higher cables and bullish advices from Argentina the market opened firm, July up ⅛@⅜c at $1.00¼@1.00½. May a shade lower to ⅛@¼c higher at $1.16¼@1.16½. July from the start was in active demand. Seemingly there was a large short interest in that option. A report was current that a Wall street clique was lifting the distant month order better to unload a large line of May. While July went up May lagged behind, declining to $1.16. Later May also started upward and good advance was made. Just before the close buying sent the prices to the highest of the day. July closed 1⅝c higher.

Corn—Sentiment was bullish, volume of trading fairly large. Buying was principally by shorts who were somewhat alarmed by bullish advices from Argentine. Strength in wheat also helped to stimulate demand. May closed ½c higher.

Oats—Firmness in other markets was reflected in a better demand for oats and prices ranged at slightly higher level. The continued light movement from the country and steady reduction of stocks were factors that aided the advancing endency. May finished ¼c better.

Flour—Trade dull, save on domestic account. Winter patents, $5.10@5.20; straighs, $4.80@5.00; spring patents, $5.00@5.50; straights, $4.50@4.90; bakers, $2.60@3.80.

NOTHING EQUALS CHAMBERLAIN'S COLIC, CHOLERA AND DIARRHOEA REMEDY.

Dr. P. B. Spears, of Pinchard, Ala., has become acquainted with the good qualities of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and uses it in his own family and in his practice. He says: "It beats any preparation I have ever seen for all bowel complaints. I do not think of recommending any other, and also use it with my own children." This remedy is for sale by all leading druggists.

Kidney complaint kills more people than any other disease. This is due to the disease being so insidious that it gets a good hold on the system before it is recognized. Foley's Kidney Cure will prevent the development of fatal disease if taken in time. For sale by J. A. Obermeyer, City Drug Store.

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

Treatment of Chilblains—Their Prevention and Cure.

Chilblains are most comfortably treated with the following mixture: Melted lanolin, one ounce; sweet almond oil, three ounces. Mix this while the lanolin is still warm. It will take a cream form when cold and can be easily rubbed on the feet. If the chilblains are only slightly broken, ten grains of menthol can be added to every ounce of the mixed fats. It must, of course, be added while they are warm. Later, after the skin has healed, the surface may be brushed over with tincture of capsicum, one dram, and glycerin of tannic acid, enough to make one ounce. Use this daily unless the skin is tender. It is a strong stimulant and astringent. A badly inflamed chilblain, where the skin is not broken, can be much soothed with a mixture of belladonna and cocaine ointments spread on a cloth. Camphorated oil will sometimes stop the development of one altogether if used in time.

Homemade Glue.

If you happen to break a glass or valuable glass ornament it can be effectually and easily mended in the following way: Melt a little isinglass in spirits of wine, add a small quantity of water, warm the mixture gently over a moderate fire. When mixed by thoroughly melting it will form a perfectly transparent glue, which will unite glass so nicely and firmly that the joint will scarcely be noticed by the most critical eye.

Cold Cream.

Into a double boiler put four ounces of imported sweet almond oil, one-half ounce of white wax, three drams of spermaceti, one ounce of rosewater and one ounce of extract of witch hazel. Let remain over boiling water until melted, then take from the fire and beat ten minutes. Drop in gradually one dram of oil of rose geranium and two drams of benzoin tincture, and beat until perfectly cold.

Dry Cleaning Chiffon.

White chiffon washes perfectly, but a better way to clean it is by a dry method. Use two parts of finely powdered starch to one part of powdered borax. Spread the chiffon on a clean muslin and rub the mixture well into it. Shake this out, and sprinkle liberally with clean flour and borax. Cover and leave overnight. The next day brush and shake every particle of powder from the chiffon.

Washing Velveteen.

Velveteen can be washed if rightly done. Soak it first in tepid water and then cleanse without soap. Add to a tepid rinse water one cup of brown sugar, and pass the garment through this. Dry it out of doors, and iron it on the wrong side, not laying it flat on a table, but with two persons holding it between their hands. This raises the pile.

Creamed Parsnip.

Cut up a piece of good mixed salt pork in half a dozen thin slices and try out in your stew kettle until a nice brown, then add a layer of parsnips (sliced lengthwise and sprinkled with pepper), then a layer of potato and so on until the kettle is full. Cover with water and boil for a good hour or, better still, an hour and a half.

Pneumonia Warnings.

Pneumonia does not come in a twinkling. It hangs out its danger signals long in advance. Hours of unaccountable lassitude after a chill or even a sense of chilliness, flashes of heat and simultaneously symptoms of severe cold are all warnings that should send a person to bed and have one telephone for the doctor.

In Using Gasoline.

Gasoline is most efficacious as a cleansing agent when it is warmed by being set into a vessel of hot water which has, of course, been removed from the stove. It is useful also to soap the article to be cleansed, using the gasoline just as if it were water.

Skin Eruptions.

In case of rashes or eruptions brought on by overindulgence in food or certain kinds of food—for example, fish—take a teaspoonful of phosphate of soda in a tumbler of hot water three times a day for two or three days or until the rash disappears.

Bathing Baby.

If baby shows a tendency to take cold on the slightest provocation, follow its daily bath with an alcoholic rub. Many mothers can testify that children treated this way are absolutely free from colds.

To Relieve Rheumatism.

An ounce of alum stirred into hot milk makes a fine bath for parts affected with rheumatism. The curds which form when the mixture gets cold make an excellent poultice to put upon the parts overnight.

TWO OLD ...FOOLS

[Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure.]

On the day that he was forty-five years old Moses Jackson went to the nearest village to buy a hoe. His wife had asked him to drop into the office of the Gazette and bring home a bundle of old papers for the pantry shelves. He found the editor alone and the paper about to suspend for the want of patronage. The editor noted the farmer's wrinkled face, bent back and discouraged look, and after some general talk said:

"Look here, Moses, you are an old fool and I am ditto. You are grubbing your life out for a mere living, and I am dead broke because the people here don't appreciate brains. Let's go into partnership."

They sat and talked for an hour, and the result was an article in the next week's Gazette that created talk all over the country and within a week had been copied all over the state. There was a spring on the Jackson farm which hardly any one but the owner knew of, and it was announced that the waters of this spring were a sure cure for all kinds of skin diseases. The editor gave half a dozen false names and told a dozen lies in the article, but people with skin diseases did not stop to question this veracity.

The paper had been off the press only a day when they began to drive up to the Jackson farm. They wanted that water in bottles, jugs, kegs and barrels, and the old farmer was on hand to sell it at so much per gallon. Inside of a month he was shipping spring water to points 400 miles away. While he was busy at the spring his wife was busy at the house. Scores and scores of people were willing to pay 50 cents for a dinner, and before the rush was over scores and scores of others paid 50 cents apiece for the privilege of sleeping on clean straw in the barn.

The analysis of the spring water pricked the bubble at last, and people ceased to come or send in orders. Moses went down to see the editor and figure with him. As they figured they chuckled. When they had reached the end of it the editor said:

"Moses, our firm has taken in $2,000 in cash. Figure out the expense, and we divide $1,000. You still have your farm left, and I may tell you that the Gazette has put on 250 new subscribers and has entered upon a boom with a big B. Go home and hoe corn and say nothing. In about two weeks our trap will be ready again."

In the course of a fortnight the neighbors of Moses Jackson noticed a strange woman about his house, but before they had time to ask questions the Gazette came out with a two column article and explained all. The strange woman was Mother Clark, the great locater of mines by means of the hazel rod. She happened to be passing through the district, and, to her surprise, her hazel rod kept pointing to the Jackson farm. She had felt it her duty to stop and tell Moses that great wealth lay beneath the surface. It might be coal or it might be gold, but it was there for sure.

Again there was a rush to the Jackson farm. There were scores of diners again at 50 cents apiece, and this time there were sleepers for the barn almost by the hundred. People wanted to prospect for that wealth, they wanted privileges, they wanted options, they wanted to go shares and work things most any old way for mutual profit, and the farm was torn up for the space of two months before the last digger got discouraged and quit. Then Moses went down to make a business call on the editor, and the editor said to him:

"We haven't done quite as well as I hoped for, but there is no kick coming to us. We sold three options at $1,000 each, and with the profits on meals and lodgers the figures run to about $10,000.

The next week the Gazette stated that there was every reason to believe that the rod pointed to oil instead of minerals and that it hoped to soon chronicle a great discovery. The discovery was made in time for the next issue, and it was a corker. Oil had been found in such quantities that no one could doubt the existence of a big lake of it under the Jackson farm.

There were some who doubted that oil had been found, but their doubts vanished as they reached the farm. There were the well, the bucket and the smell. Those who descended into the well came up covered with grease and convinced that petroleum was a big thing. That the coal men had failed was no reason why the oil men should not succeed. A dozen speculators wanted options before the first week was over, and every neighboring farmer who would sell or lease found a customer at his door. Leases and options were taken on the Jackson farm to the last acre, and when the papers had been made out and the money passed over the editor of the Gazette expressed his readiness to figure again with Moses.

"The firm of Moses Jackson & Co. will now divide up the sum of $22,000," he said as he laid down his pencil. "We might have got more by hanging out, but we are no hogs. The man who knows when he has got a good thing is the man who succeeds. Incidentally I will add that I have had to hire a girl to book subscriptions, and I must now issue a double edition to provide for advertisers. Moses, you ought to have about $11,000 ready for the bank."

"A little more than that," replied Moses, "and we move into the best house in town next week."

"That is well. You are now a bloated capitalist and can walk around with your hands in your pockets. Never forget, however, that honesty is the best policy and that the road to success is through integrity." M. QUAD.

PERFECT CONFIDENCE.

Where there used to be a feeling of uneasiness and worry in the household when a child showed symptoms of croup, there is now perfect confidence. This is owing to the uniform success of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the treatment of that disease. Mrs. M. I. Basford, of Poolesville, Md., in speaking of her experience in the use of that remedy, says: "I have a world of confidence in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, for I have used it with perfect success. My child, Garland, is subject to severe attacks of croup and it always gives him prompt relief." For sale by all leading druggists.

WINCHESTER AFFAIR

Albert Hankins, Wanted for Assault Upon George Thomas Last Saturday, Arrested in This City.

Albert Hankins, who is wanted in Winchester, was arrested on the west side of the square Saturday night by Captain Kennedy, who at once notified Sheriff E. M. Gillham of Scott county who came over and identified the prisoner. Hankins has a charge of assault with attempt to kill against him as the result of an altercation which occurred in Winchester last Saturday evening. He will have his preliminary hearing Monday morning.

The story of the affair is somewhat as follows: Hankins was under the influence of liquor and while passing along the street ran into a man by the name of George Thomas. Thomas remarked that he "had better look out where he was going," upon which Hankins struck him in the neck with some instrument, presumably brass knucks, knocking him down. Thomas sprung to his feet and being the better man, threw Hankins and began to choke him. A bystander seperated the men, and later as Thomas was standing on the sidewalk talking to some friends Hankins was seen running in his direction down the street. As he approached Thomas it was observed that he had a knife in his hand. Shouting "I'll kill you," he made a lunge at Thomas' throat, the knife cutting a long gash in the victim's arm. The fact that he threw his arm in front of his neck is thought to be the only thing that saved his life. Hankins at once left town, and the police of this city have been on the look out for him since, with the result before mentioned.

FARMER MEETS DEATH

Strange Fate of William Morris, of the Vicinity of Scottville—Dragged by the Head to His Own Gate—Wife Finds Lifeless Body.

William Morris was found dead by his wife at the gate leading into the yard surrounding his residence, nine miles southeast of the Harland church and three miles north of Scottville, Saturday evening at 5 o'clock.

Mr. Morris had spent the day trading in Franklin and started for his home about the middle of the afternoon. Although the real cause of his death has not been ascertained, the supposition is that he fell from his buggy when nearing his home. When found his head was fastened between the shaft of the buggy and the axel, the body hanging below, and all indications point to the supposition that he had been drug in that position for several miles, as his right hand was considerably mangled and the skull showed a large identation near the base of the brain.

The horse, it is supposed, was going at a good rate of speed and when his master fell from the rig he never slackened his pace, as he was nearing home. When the body was found the face was covered with blood which had been flowing freely from the mouth.

Dr. Webster, of Nortonville, was called at once and went immediately to the Morris residence where he found Mr. Morris in the condition stated above. Examination showed that life had been extinct for some time.

Coroner J. H. Spencer, of Murrayville, was notified and will empannel a jury this morning at 9 o'clock to investigate the cause of the death.

Mr. Morris was about 25 years of age and is survived by his wife and one child. He was well and favorably known in the Scottville vicinity and has a host of friends who will be sorry to learn of his untimely death.

AT THE GRAND.

Jack Stout presented W. B. Patton and company at the Grand last evening in a beautiful comedy drama, "The Last Rose of Summer." A fair audience witnessed the production, and had it been any night other than Saturday the house would probably have been filled.

Mr. Patton captured his audience the moment he stepped upon the stage and during the entire production his appearance never failed to call forth hearty applause. Although he was easily the favorite of the audience, the supporting cast was made up of good people, who received their share of the applause. George Leming as Robert Reynolds was especially good, and Louise Foster, Mignon Oxer and Ida Florence Campbell in the feminine roles also deserve mention.

"The Royal Slave" Monday is the next attraction.

FOR MRS. REHFELDT.

Mrs. A. J. Hoover entertained twenty ladies at flinch Saturday in honor of Mrs. Arthur W. Rehfeldt, of St. Louis. Much merriment was added to the afternoon by a peanut contest in which Mrs. Williamson and Miss McCullough won the prizes. Eclegant refreshments were served.
